

Relative clauses across languages and across mode of acquisition

Maria Teresa Guasti

University of Milano Bicocca & ZAS, Berlin

I will present a series of studies on the acquisition of relative clauses in different populations: monolinguals, bilinguals, children with language problems and in different languages (Italian, French, German, Greek, Mandarin) with the aim to show which factors contribute to make relative clauses difficulties. I will be discussing both structural factors as well as semantic and morphosyntactic factors.